

The Future of Industrial Resin Flooring

Resdev – The Classic Choice for Alvis Cars

High performance epoxy resin flooring systems developed and manufactured by Resdev Ltd have been installed by resin flooring application experts Pola Flooring to Alvis cars specialist Red Triangle's upgraded diagnostic centre in Kenilworth, providing a durable and visually attractive solution meeting the challenges of this demanding application.

Red Triangle provides a unique parts and restoration service for classic Alvis cars, offering a high quality service to enthusiasts around the world. When excavation of the existing diagnostic centre to install a rolling road and other advanced facilities necessitated a total refurbishment of the unit housing this facility, the company turned to specialists Pola Flooring to recommend a suitable flooring system.

Pola had already successfully installed Resdev systems at Red Triangle for a previous extension to the workshops, making Resdev the obvious choice for this project. Once construction work was completed, the existing floor was planed and prepared, and Resdev's Pumascreed was laid to a nominal 6mm thickness.

Pumascreed is a highly filled epoxy resin quartz aggregate screed mortar ideal for use in areas such as engineering workshops, and is suitable for heavy traffic and light chemical attack. The material cures rapidly and offers excellent abrasion resistance.

Pola then sealed the floor using two coats of Resdev's Pumashield epoxy coating, resulting in a smooth, easily cleaned surface. The overall finish is clean and light, and incorporates demarcation lines for safety around the edges of the inspection pit.

Red Triangle Director Alan Stote is delighted with the completed project. "The floor finish has effectively lifted the whole room and created the clean, hygienic effect we wanted for this area," he stated. "We believe this work, conducted by Pola Flooring, has added to the value of the facility, and are extremely satisfied with the end result."
