

The Future of Industrial Resin Flooring

Resdev celebrates 30 years in seventies style

Yorkshire based resin flooring manufacturer, Resdev Ltd, marked its 30th anniversary celebrations with a seventies themed party at Bertie's Banqueting Hall in Elland. 150 guests including customers, suppliers, staff and associates were entertained throughout the evening by singer Clayton Brooks and the band Performance. Many of the guests attended in seventies fancy dress with a mix of hippies, disco dancers and punk rockers sitting down to traditional Yorkshire fayre.

The Company was set up in 1978 by John Wright, the present Chairman, and moved to Elland a year later. Resdev has expanded over the years and, whilst building a worldwide reputation, it remains committed to retaining manufacturing and employment in the local area, sourcing materials from within the UK and taking into account their impact on the environment wherever possible.

From its 20,000 sq ft facilities on the Ainleys Industrial Estate, Resdev manufactures a comprehensive range of high performance resin floor and wall systems exporting to more than 25 countries across the globe for applications including food factories, warehouses, printing facilities, dairies, car manufacturing plants, car parks, office, conference and retail complexes.

Resdev is a founder member of FeRFA, the trade organisation representing manufacturers and installers of resin floors and during the past decade has continued to build upon significant export markets for finished PUMA branded products, own-label materials for manufacturers and technology transfer deals for partly formulated systems under the leadership of John's son, Nick Wright, as Managing Director.

Speaking at the dinner, Resdev Founder and past FeRFA Chairman John Wright said, "Being involved personally with resin flooring since its inception in the early sixties means that I or my son, Nick, know virtually everyone involved in the industry and the opportunity to celebrate 30 years in business with our friends is a great honour".
